Projected Five Year Reading & Literacy Course Schedule 2022- 2026

(This schedule is subject to change; Updated 9/26/22)

IMPORTANT NOTES	(1) Courses are marked of its requirement area for the secondary literacy endorsement. (2) Our master of education in Reading and Literacy is redesigned to be aligned with the new USBE secondary literacy interventionist endorsement. As students complete core master's classes, the course credits are used for required competencies for the secondary endorsement. Thus, we strongly encourage students to apply to our master's in Reading and Literacy program so that students can complete requirements for literacy endorsement along with a master's degree. (3) Students can still take the courses even if they are not in our master program. (4) Please make sure to register for continuing education section (030 section) for each of our core courses. This will provide reduced-rate tuition. (5) The listed courses are core courses for our MED program. These courses are offered once in every two years and course sequences are designed to complete all core courses in two years. (6) These master's course uses IVC-format, which will meet online in a real time, that is zoom meeting. (7) MED students: a. Please make sure to always follow your approved coursework form. Once you are admitted to the M.Ed program, you will update and submit your initial coursework form to the Program Director in November and April of each year. b. Pre-approval from the Program Director is needed for registration for electives. Preapproval occurs in November and April when you update and submit your coursework form. c. ED PS 6728 Reading & Literacy Comprehensive Review and Exam Prep is taken with your comprehensive exam. It is offered every Spring semester. Pre-approval for this 3-credit comprehensive review and exam class is needed from the Program Director and occurs when you update and submit your coursework form in November and April. d. This projected schedule only lists courses offered by the Reading and Literacy Program in the Department of Educational Psychology. Many of the elective choices are not in the Reading and Literacy program. You will need to check the U of U Course Schedule and the U of U Reading Clinic websites to find if a particular elective is offered the semester you wish to take it. Be aware that elective courses outside of the Reading and Literacy Program in EDPS and the U of U Reading Clinic cost the regular graduate school tuition rate.
