University of Utah ~ Educational Psychology Application for Course Waiver for Students

Although the Graduate School permits students to transfer in only two 3-semester-hour courses into their graduate program at the University of Utah, the Educational Psychology department allows students to waive courses taken in a previous graduate program that the faculty considers comparable to required courses. In order to apply for course waivers, the student completes the following information and attaches course syllabi for the courses s/he is requesting a waiver. All courses for which waivers are requested must have been taken in a graduate program. Once approved, the student is notified and a copy of the approved application is placed in the student's file.
